Doctorandus Degree in Medicine (M.Med.S.)[a]
Aug. 10, 1987, University of Maastricht, The Netherlands

Doctorate (Ph.D.) in Medicine (Medical Ethics)
December 21, 1994, Radboud University Nijmegen, The Netherlands
Dissertation: In the Face of Suffering: Prolegomena to a Philosophical Foundation of Clinical Ethics. Radboud University Nijmegen, 1994, 351 pp, ISBN: 90-9007874-6. Dissertation Supervisor: Prof. dr. Henk AMJ ten Have

Philosophy

Doctorandus Degree (M.A.), with Honorable Mention
June 16, 1987, Radboud University Nijmegen, The Netherlands

Post-graduate certificate[b] in Philosophy of the Humanities / Philosophy of Medicine
February 5, 1990, Radboud University Nijmegen, The Netherlands

[a] As a result of the European degree equivalency movement, the "doctorandus" degree is no longer used and has now been formally replaced by the Master degree. Literally, the word Doctorandus means "he who has to become a doctor" and the degree did indeed represent a course of studies that was more akin to an PhD-Cand or ABD-"All but the dissertation" stage. But unlike the ABD, the Drs. degree was considered a terminal degree.

[b] Had the current system of degrees been in place, this one-year specialization program would have yielded another Master degree.

Law

Doctorandus Degree (J.D.), Cum Laude [a]
Aug. 17, 1990, University of Limburg (presently named: University of Maastricht), The Netherlands

Education

University Teaching Certification (Netherlands)
Nov 9, 2022, Maastricht University

ACADEMIC HONORS

3/2023-present	Professor Emeritus appointment, Creighton University
4/2019-4/2022	Associate Member, Creighton University Chapter, Alpha Iota Sigma International Interdisciplinary Honor Society
2/2019-present	Corresponding Member, Pontifical Academy Pro Vita.
2019	Indiana University School of Dentistry, 2019 Laskin Lecturer in Professional Ethics
2/4/2013	2013 Teaching for Tomorrow Faculty Award, awarded by the Creighton University Students Union. (This award serves as a way for students to publicly acknowledge faculty members who have positively impacted their lives by going above and beyond the call of duty to serve Creighton students. These faculty members have displayed exceptional dedication to their students, both in and out of the classroom, and exemplify the Jesuit tradition of Cura Personalis - care of the person.)
10/26/2012	2012 Exceptional Educator Award, School of Medicine
10/2011-present	Honorary Fellow, American College of Dentists

[a] Prior to the European degree equivalency movement, law studies in The Netherlands ended with a "Doctorandus" degree. Since completion of law studies in the U.S. rarely leads to a Master's degree (LLM), but usually to a JD degree, the Dutch Drs. degree in law is most equivalent to the American JD degree.
